O la berceuse, avec ta Sonnets mélancoliques (French Edition) et Finnocence De vos pieds froids, accueille une horrible naissance: Et ta voix rappelant viole et clavecin, Avec le doigt fane presseras-tu le sein Par qui coule en blancheur sibylline la femme Pour des levres que Fair du vierge azur affame? But how might this be? Sure she will pity him that loves her so truly.

Come from the Lethean ponds, and on your way, dear Tedium, gather livid reeds
I feel sure two mouths never fed, neither her lover nor my mother, on the same Fantasy as each other, I, sylph with cold eaves overhead!
Graham, VIII, p.

The sun has drowned in its own drying blood. Both stanzas speak of the desired woman—again, Amour allegorized—and evoke of a certain part of her that traps the poet rendering him helpless.
